Looking Back: Salt Lake City 2010

A lattice crawler, such as this Linkbelt LS348 equipped with luffer attachment was just the trick for the tight spaces of the downtown City Creek project.

We'll Take it From Here...

When the crane can only get your load so far, it's time to hand it off to Mountain's Special Projects Team. We have specialty rigging and transport equipment that can complete any job from start to finish.

Recently, our team lifted 40 electrolyzers (weighing 165K lbs each) off the rail line and onto 6 lines of THP Goldhofer trailer. Once the Goldhofer moved the units across the lay-down yard, the crane picked each unit and set it on our 9 axle Trail King for over-the-road transport.

Our LR1300 crawler crane then set the units on our Hillman Specialty Transporter. Our crews carefully moved each piece into place inside the building. The job was a great success and was an awesome site to see many moving pieces at work!

Safety Strong, Safety Share

Slipping and tripping is one of the easiest ways to get hurt on any job site. Preventing slips and trips is also easy when we stay up on housekeeping and being aware of surroundings at all times. If working on high level floors, be especially aware of what is going on around you. After using tools put them away promptly. Remember, a successful job is a safe job!

Bryce Olsen, Field Safety Manager

The core of Mountain is a top notch crew who is committed to SAFETY and executing every job with professionalism and precision. We are proud to be Mountain strong.
